Juanma

1 The media and the information sources that I use to get news are Tik Tok, instagram, sometimes YouTube and not so often I look for something in Google.

2 Today I read/listened to/watched news about the following subjects: Music, cinema, politics, war and comics

3 What interests me the most in news is whether it involves countries that I know or just unknown countries for me.

4 It's important to be informed about what's going on in the world because maybe those things that happen can affects us (like the Ukrainian war, the Russian involvement and the sanctions of the UN made that the world's economy affects Argentina in an indirect way, like the gas price)

2) Choose three articles (NOT RELATED TO POLITICS) about the same news, each one written by a different journalist and published in different newspapers. Read the three articles and answer:

1) What are the differences and similarities between them?

✓ the three are pretty much the same and almost talk about the same things, two of them talk about the event more generally and the other one talk more detailed about what had happened there.

The two that don't get into detail only talk about the most polemic facts about the event.

2) If the subject is the same, why are they different?

✓ They could be different because of their source of information, or due to their ideology.

3) What do you learn with this exercise that could help you as a person who reads news?

✓ We can learn that maybe it is a good thing to look up different sources of information about a subject that we are interested in and not just look up the same source to compare and build your opinion on the discourse.

4) Paste the links to the articles

3) Have you ever shared information and then realized it was not true? Tell me about your experience. If that has never happened to you, choose a fake news article and explain where it was published and the impact and consequences of it.

✓ Yes, we both have done this. Juanma believed a fake news about the death of queen Elizabeth in august and told his friends about this. Popa also believed the fake news about people with purple eyes and no period and told her mom she wanted to be like those people.

4) Find out about how to search and evaluate information sources. Prepare a 1 minute video in which you give these tips for students at our school.

- You can do it in Spanish
- Both students must appear in the video (image or voice)
- You can edit your video with pictures, emojis, etc.
- Give advice about what they should or should not do.
